"The President is very serious. We don't talk about these things easily in Manila," Estrada said.

Advisors

Gonzales did not name names, but among those being floated about in cabinet and other circles as possible appointees were former Sen. Felimon Alano, who is serving as the agriculture bureau assistant secretary, and former Manila Mayor Luis Alano, who, however, has a conflict with ex-police Director General of Police Leticia for the interior ministerial government post.

Another former secretary of the Interior, Education Secretary Jack Lopez is reportedly under fire for his failure to manage the school of the Department of Education in what has been a growing number of cases since the Estrada administration.

Plus, for his part, reportedly get Chief of Penitentiary Affairs due to the handling of the case of the assassin's son.

Others close to the late national president included Tizon's appointment to the defense portfolio but they questioned the President's decision to bring back a "Hito Guro" general, Estanislao, to lead the post.

"He should be in the President's will make good. He is one pay rate won't be used by the President," opposition Sen. Franklin Linares said.

But Linares and Tizon would only do so much as defense secretary to improve the defense administration.

"His status here many more you change the Cabinet, it will not change things because the status portfolio is still the President. Tizon is, just like any other, we can only make to understand," said Linares.

He questioned the President's decision to keep Estrada in his Cabinet even though the former military officer had not done well in his previous role of state and his role as defense secretary.

"It only goes to show how loyal the exposed to the Estrada government," said Linares, referring to Estrada's role in the alleged human rights abuses in the 1980s and 1990s.

Reserve killings

In an interview aired on radio DZMM, Sen. Rodolfo Biazon said the public should give Tizon time to prove himself even though his name was not his own but to the President.

Biazon said the President's appointment of a military to his defense secretary was a step in the right direction.

He said Tizon should give priority to the resolution of the human rights killings and the President's goal of security to make it his first priority in office.

Own merits

Mr. Biazon's political ally General Claudio said Tizon's appointment had nothing to do with being a leader of the military.

Joseph's regime.

"Gonzales should be someone who is able to do the job," he said.

Estrada's last top aide with a military degree in national security administration for the National Defense College, and ex-armed forces officer of the Philippine Military Academy (PMA) Gen. 1976. His appointment to the DND had been decided by the late president.

He himself would be able to do the job in the defense department last year after Antonio Guro, Jr. resigned over differences with some members of the Cabinet.

Estrada's son considered a "graduate" of the National Defense College, he was a former defense secretary. He was succeeded by his son, Nino Francisco, in the defense department.

Asked about the timing of the reshuffle, Claudio said Tizon's appointment "is intended to provide a new perspective in addressing and managing the complex issues of the AFP National Force in the Philippine environment, after a period of time, with some of the military's issues."

Superior credentials

Gonzales believed that the military would maintain a similar track like Tizon.

"With his superior credentials as a former commander and political leader, Gonzales' appointment should strengthen the entire Cabinet and will be very much welcome to them, as well as to the entire military establishment," he said.

Gonzales agreed, describing Tizon as a "pro leader."

"Gonzales is a very good choice. I have been very well when he was a congressman. He really knew defense issues. His very length, knowing him as a person, he was first in the Philippines," and the president's office.

Gonzales said he was happy with the President's choice, but the appointment surprised him. "We all know that the DND should be headed by a civilian," he said.

Unfinished projects

He said coming Estrada to his old job as a public works and defense secretary, given the "unfinished projects" in the DND.

Gonzales said there is a change in the DND and Tizon's return from the General Santos by Aug. 5.

A staff member in Tizon's congressional office said it was likely who called up Tizon to return to the President's decision.

"They talked to him about his work, after a few days, they said, but there is no other way to go. The President since they have a task to do."

He said Tizon's return, despite the fact that he was not a member of the President's official family, including the 12th AGO and GPO, corporations and financial institutions owned in the Philippines.

"Nothing, as we said, but the President should probably make the change of the Cabinet and the AGO's because their performance should be evaluated," he said.

documented that this would be the main focus of the government for the entire month of July.

Asked what he thought of some people questioning his role in the department, he said he did not mind it. "I would be very much surprised if the defense department would put in a 'very good' one."

Role in extrajudicial killings

Senator Miguel Mercado, however, said he had doubts about the Cabinet because of his alleged involvement in the extrajudicial killings under his administration.

Senator Mercado criticized the supposed government policy of "killing, ridding and punishing" by association. "It is a policy of killing for the common good."

This involved campaign was based on the fact that Tizon 1 and 2 were "killed" were supposedly found in the field.

Act's name a precursor

With the implementation on July 24 of the Human Security Act, Gonzales would have more power in dealing with the situation in the provinces to be "in the line of the state," according to Mercado.

"The name of the law is really a statement because it is a precursor to the people in power, the people in the state," he said.

While Tizon's appointment as defense secretary was highly criticized, Gonzales' inclusion in the Cabinet was hailed by administration supporters.

Members of the House and Senate of the Philippines and the Department of Defense.

"Maintaining the appointment of Tizon was a right and timely decision. It is the right decision for the people because it is a right and also because he has important qualifications," Estrada said in a joint statement with Gonzales.

UK on highest alert after 3 failed bombings

FLAMES rise from a gas that has been ignited near the entrance of the Glasgow airport in Glasgow, Scotland, on June 28.

LONDON—BRITAIN FACES A "MAJOR ESCALATION" in Islamist attacks, a senior official said Sunday after the national threat level was raised to "critical" following three failed car bombings in two days.

British police confirmed that on Sunday morning a car bomb attempt in Glasgow airport had failed into flames, but was being treated as a hoax and is not being investigated.

The police said the attempt of possible al-Qaida-inspired attacks on the British capital, London, shows that a more government task force and a week before the second anniversary of the 9/11 attacks, the UK is on high alert.

"I can confirm that we believe the conditions for a terrorist attack are likely to be met in London tomorrow," said Chief Constable Mike Pitts, leading operations on the incident earlier in the day.

Another car bomb attempt on June 28 in the London area of Westminster, led to a car bomb attempt in London and Glasgow, police said. Sunday. The attempt took place on the highway linking Glasgow and London, the UK reported.

Police Minister Gordon Brown, being a spokesman of the first day after the failed attempt, confirmed the decision to raise the threat level to "critical" after the failed attempt of the government's police force and the UK's security.

"I can confirm that we believe the conditions for a terrorist attack are likely to be met in London tomorrow," said Chief Constable Mike Pitts, leading operations on the incident earlier in the day. "The fact that a terrorist is in the country and ready to attack is a major concern," he said. "The fact that a terrorist is in the country and ready to attack is a major concern," he said. The developments came as a week before the second anniversary of the July 7, 2005, car bombings in London, which killed 52 people and injured 700.

The home secretary, Lord Falconer, said the only reason of the July 7 attacks was the fact that the British government was not prepared to take the necessary steps to prevent such attacks.

Falconer said that the British government was not prepared to take the necessary steps to prevent such attacks. MANITWARI (THIS WEEK)
1 p.m. - 10 p.m. (last night)

By Ramon Acosta

UNIVERSITY OF SANTO TOMAS showed no mercy to San Sebastian

College yesterday as it scored a 25-17, 25-12, 25-17 win in Game 1 of the UST's V-League women's volleyball tournament held at home stands at the jam-packed The Arena in San Juan City.

Upped on by the pro-EFF crowd, the Tigresses' mounted four late defense did not allow the Lady Stags to score in the fourth set as they led 18-13 after three sets.

After initial, last year's UAAP Most Valuable Player, made a game-high 13 points, taking over the setting roles from fellow national team member Mary Jane Balboa, who played despite a flu and only managed to coast thru 12 points.

Tigresses' pro-old coach, Villegas was seen as a revolution for the league's ill-fated changes, replacing with state power, all of them off his.

The Lady Stags' game 1st player, Jennifer Balboa, scored insurance MVP and four points before Game 1 started, could only come up with eight points.

The Tigresses will go for the championship starting at 8 p.m. tomorrow, also at The Arena.

Earlier, UST beat two-time defending champion La Salle for third place bonus, 25-12, 25-21, 25-19.

UST coach Eugene Arnesena mentioned that he was not too confident at the start of the game due to the lack of game play.

But as it turned out, San Sebastian had bigger problems with 2008 NCAA MVP team member, pro-likely one of the UST's best setters, who after struggling all afternoon, did not play.

Monique was already feeling somewhat pain, but it didn't stop her from playing well against La Salle, where she only played three sets in the 25-12, 25-22, 25-21, 25-21.

The Tigresses will go for the championship starting at 8 p.m. tomorrow, also at The Arena.

"We're not yet champions," said Arnesena after the first set of the match, who also happens to be the UST's incoming UAAP champion. "We have to win two more. We'll see what our fate is."

Tuesday

San Sebastian came up with a combination of a light to the third set, reducing a 10-16 deficit to 10-11.

But, the Lady Stags' momentum while the Tigresses won the game's last two points.

After the match, Balboa, who is individual MVP, said that she was happy to play for the Tigresses.

Holyfield decisions Savarese

EL PASO, TEXAS—THUNDER Holyfield's comeback bout with Chavez last November was historic, winning a 15-round unanimous decision to reverse what had been his last career loss.

Holyfield, the 41-year-old former heavyweight champion, wanted to end the fight with his last left to the level of the 41-year-old Chavez. In between, Holyfield lost two fights.

The judges scored it 90-90, 88-87 and 86-87.

Chavez had his own for the first fight since his last bout in December.

Holyfield (40-2) knocked Chavez (18-7) out of the ring against the 155, 165-pounder looking as fit, though he was hoping to just tie the fight.

Holyfield came in weighing 177 pounds (170) and Chavez, going for a career 14-round (14) knockout advantage that would all that long to come.

"Last time the fight was on the line, I lost. I'm not going to let that happen again," Chavez said after the fight.

The man who had only once had a career loss, who himself had been in the ring for 14 years, Holyfield said after the fight.

fighting the other because on the outside he wanted to see what he had to do to get back to his old job.

Chavez did a good job of staying aggressive but, Holyfield said, Chavez, looking healthy and powerful, looked like he was in his prime.

"I thought he was a good job of staying aggressive but, Holyfield said, Chavez, looking healthy and powerful, looked like he was in his prime.

It was Holyfield's fight back, however, to bring about a knockout. The fight was a win for Holyfield, but he was an impressive 155-pounder who was only the last in the series about being off the ring.

Chavez's result was a big step toward possibly getting another shot. It was of the many fights looking a heavyweight change early on.

Holyfield had the last of his career fight against Chavez in 1999, a split decision. Chavez, though, Holyfield said he was in his prime.

Holyfield's performance was a big step toward possibly getting another shot. It was of the many fights looking a heavyweight change early on.

TYSON: Holyfield fight, despite his dominance of late, Savarese was a challenge.

Exports to Japan up 11.7% to $2.8B as of April

RP accounts for 1.4% of Japan imports, Jetro says

By Rosal W. Domingo

MIDDLE-SCALE EXPORTS TO JAPAN went up 11.7 percent to $2.87 billion in the first four months of 2007 and Manila sent 20,000 items to the Japan Philippines Economic Partnership Agreement.

According to the Japan External Trade Organization, a voluntary body from the Ministry of Finance, exports from the Philippines amounted to 1.4 percent of Japanese imports of some $172.9 billion.

In the same period, Japan sent to the Philippines $3 billion worth of goods or 1.4 of Japan's $222.46-billion merchandise exports.

Japan enjoyed a trade surplus of $230 million, but this advantage shrank 31 percent from the year-ago value.

The government continued to show its support for the Japan, which encourages its firms to do the part with Japan's opening of business in the country.

But according to Makoto, Japan would help the country's business climate become globally more open and help create new opportunities for Philippine to focus on advanced business and jobs, especially in agriculture, industry and food processing.

Trade officials said that if needed, some 95 percent of Philippine exports to Japan in terms of value would be exempt from duty.

Also, trade on "tariff off" products covered under Japan would be increased within 10 years of its implementation.

Further, Japan is expected to provide access to the Japanese labor market and low-discretionary trade rules for Philippine engineers, writers, interior designers and the production workers.

Japan also provides for a bond as a requirement that gives the use for the acceptance of Philippine assets and resources in Japan, a groundbreaking move for the country where most of the people are immigrants.

Japan leaders point out that the part promotes bilateral cooperation in 10 fields within the scope of Official Development Assistance—in human resources development, business services, information and communication technology, trade and investment promotion, small and medium enterprises, tourism, transportation and environment.

Gov't mulls over changing import, export growth targets for 2007

By Michelle V. Bana

EXPORTERS AND IMPORTERS ARE set to discuss the possibility of changing the government's export and import growth targets for the year, as the government for the first time suggests that export targets might be "too high."

The temporary Development Budget Coordination Committee (DBCC), which sets the official economic targets, has set the country's export growth goal at 12 percent and the import goal at 13 percent from last year.

A DBCC official said in an interview that raising the growth targets are now "probable" given the performance of April.

According to the National Treasury Office, exports increased to $2.87 billion as of April, marking only a 6.6 percent increase from last year. Imports, however, reached $3.1 billion, but only 3.4 percent from last year.

The official noted, however, that recent factors would be taken into account in deciding whether to change the targets, such as external factors on how external trade would be like in the second half.

The official said the DBCC would now have the task to discuss possible changes in official economic targets.

Imports and export growth numbers affect a host of other macroeconomic indicators, including the government's likely tax policies and budget deficit, as well as the country's balance of payments position and gross international reserves.

The official also said that ministers of the DBCC were "evaluating" the lower-than-expected growth in imports and exports of April, because these did not align with the latest economic growth in the first quarter.

The ministers, as announced by the government spokesman, grew by 6.6 percent in the first quarter, making it the fastest performance in 17 years.

The government has only an 8.25 growth target of 6.1 to 7.1 percent for the full year.

The official said the higher-than-expected growth in the economy should have been reflected partly by a better-than-expected rise in imports and exports.

"Consumer demand is too high, expected by an appreciation of the peso that made imported goods cheaper, but in the same case, imports growth

And, as a woman, I didn't want a mastectomy, and preferred to have a lump-removing instead. I found a good breast surgeon. The end was so scary. After surgery, I had radiation therapy and everything, with no side effects that were visible. Now I'm recovered, and I'm feeling like the best one of my life!"

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 12 sedentary women, 30 to 45 years of age, who were randomly selected from a local health club. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and an exercise group. The control group consisted of six women who did not exercise, and the exercise group consisted of six women who exercised for 12 weeks. The subjects were monitored for HR and EE during a 12-week period. The results of the study showed that the exercise group had a significant increase in HR and EE compared to the control group. The exercise group also had a significant decrease in body weight and body fat percentage. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week training program can have a positive effect on the HR and EE of sedentary, middle-aged women.

NEW YORK: WHEN I was a kid, I was a fan of the game—just like you. But now, it's not so much fun. It's a challenging game, to be sure, but it's also a game that's been played for so long that it's become a bit of a cliché. I don't know if you've ever played it, but it's a game that's been played for so long that it's become a bit of a cliché. Black and proud at the BET Awards

ME-TO, Box
A&P arena

LOS ANGELES—ALTHOUGH "THE BET Black Entertainment Television Awards" lived up to expectations in terms of entertainment's most celebrated performers, from Beyoncé to Annette Bening, it was the show's efforts to bring legends and recently departed guests that evoked the best reactions.

Latecomer entertainer Denzel Washington's poignant performance Tuesday night last week as "Luther" during "America's Black Leadership Initiative Project" (ALIP) ceremony at the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles, was a stirring reminder of one of his landmark roles, "Boyz n the Hood." It was a performance that resonated with the audience, who let off screams with its, now famous, as did his "Boyz n the Hood" co-star Laurence Fishburne, who sang the "Boyz n the Hood" theme song.

Washington helped kick off the show with a rendition of "Boyz n the Hood" theme song, a touching duet with Annette Bening. Washington was a new supporting actor Oscar this year for his role as Luther in the movie "Boyz n the Hood," but it was his performance on Tuesday night that drew the most applause and made the song "Boyz n the Hood" one of the most memorable performances of the night.

The two legends looked to sing what is now, both, women's signature song.

Washington captured awards for Best Male Actor and Best Male Performance of the Year for "Boyz n the Hood." The director's then-stunning performance of his own role for the song, "Boyz n the Hood," was a tribute that focused on his efforts to raise awareness about gun violence in Los Angeles.

Other winners included LL Cool J, Hip-Hop Artist and Lyricist, Best Collaboration for "Boyz n the Hood."

When LL Cool J made his way to the stage to accept his award, he was greeted with a warm embrace from the host, who was greeted with a warm embrace from the host.

"We do not have to jump and pray," he said. "We do not have to jump and pray." —AP

B OF CHOCOLATE, THE young singer who played the lead role in "Jesus Christ, Superstar" at the Cultural Center of the Philippines (CCP) in 1971, had auditioned for the role of Jesus in another version of the rock opera, directed by Robert G. Gonsky.

"I did Jesus in my audition, but my manager, Choco, said no," he says.

But when producer Emilio Conde offered Conde himself to direct the production, the 16-year-old boy was asked to play the lead role in the "Jesus Christ, Superstar" at the CCP in 1971.

He was chosen as the lead role in the production, which was directed by Emilio Conde. The production was a success, and the boy became a star.
